GCCC Presentation

History of NAADAC & National Credentials

- Founded in 1972 as the National Association of Alcoholism Counselors and Trainers (NAACT)
 - Started as a Peer Treatment and Recovery organization at this time.
- Primary objective: to develop a field of professional counselors with professional qualifications and backgrounds.
- NAADAC worked with NIAAA in 1978 to establish the first recognized competencies to work with persons with alcoholism. The Birch & Davis Report was the foundation of competencies we use today. NAACT – 1st National Credentials.
 - This body of work has developed over the years to what is used today – the Tap 21.

History of NAADAC & National Credentials

- The organization evolved and became the National Association for Alcoholism and Drug Abuse Counselors (NAADAC) in 1982, uniting professionals who worked for positive outcomes in alcohol and drug services.
- NAADAC's current name - NAADAC, the Association for Addiction Professionals - was adopted in 2001 and reflects the increasing variety of addiction services professionals.
- NAADAC has been the leader in recognizing, advocating for and advancing all addiction professionals, counselors, administrators, clinical supervisors, peers, and educators as critical in SUD treatment and recovery support.

What is NCC AP?

The National Certification Commission for Addiction Professionals (NCC AP), under the auspices of NAADAC, operates as an independent body for all matters involving the Association's substance use disorders counselor certification and endorsement opportunities at the national and international level.

What is NCC AP?

Established in 1990, NCC AP has independent autonomy in the development and promulgation of standards for testing, including who qualifies for the exams, content, administration, scoring and appeals. Specifically, the NCC AP:

- Develops and keeps current national standards of requisite knowledge in substance use disorder counseling;
- Provides evaluation mechanisms for measuring and monitoring the level of knowledge required for national credentialing;
- Provides formal recognition to those individuals who meet the national standards; and
- Establishes appropriate policies for acquiring and maintaining the national credentials.

NCC AP/GCCC Credentials

■ Greatest Need - A Qualified Addiction Workforce

- Demand for qualified and well-trained addiction and mental health professionals has increased globally before the COVID crisis – now, even more so.
- Unfortunately, the addiction and mental health treatment workforce currently is not equipped to handle this influx and other professions are willing to fill the gap without specific education, training, skills and competencies specific to substance use and mental health disorders.
- Other disciplines site access to treatment as the issue. We site quality treatment by trained specialists.
- It is vital to protect the integrity of the addiction discipline as a specific set of knowledge, competencies/skills and attitudes.
- Training specific to integration with primary care, addictions and mental health is essential to create health networks in communities across the globe.

NCC AP/GCCC Credentials

- NCC AP and GCCC Credentials evidences that an individual professional meets a certain standard of competence at the level in which you have tested and become certified; Peer, NCACI, NCACII, and MAC (USA) and globally (ICAPI, ICAPII, ICAPIII and ICAPIV).
- NCC AP/GCCC credentials give a competitive advantage – these are recognized by many countries and that will continue to expand globally.
- In the USA, a survey conducted by the National Health and Wellness Association (insurance companies) found that for addiction treatment and insurance reimbursement, NCC AP MAC was the most recognized and reimbursed.
- NCC AP National Credentials are used or recognized in 42 states and NAADAC/NCC AP is working toward recognition in throughout the United States.

Why Addiction Credentials?

- Standardization
- Protects the public and helps the public to identify qualified addiction professionals. Too many acronyms lead to more confusion and less trust in the profession
- Standards create better outcome measures to evidence outcomes and readjust competencies and skills as needed
- Portability – geographically and telehealth
- Recognition of a discipline
- A stronger, unified voice for the addiction profession
- A clearer path for recruitment of new professionals

- The written USA credentialing examination is tailored to test the applicant on his or her projected knowledge based on experience, education and training. The following skill groups are evaluated in the examination, and an applicant for national certification should be well versed in each of these topic areas:
 1. treatment admission (screening, intake and orientation)
 2. clinical assessment
 3. ongoing treatment planning
 4. counseling services (individual, group, family, crisis intervention and client education)
 5. documentation
 6. case management
 7. discharge and continuing care
 8. legal, ethical and professional growth issues
 9. Pharmacology & Physiology

Examination Content Validation

- The Job analysis process is a rigorous study of each piece of content that is to be considered part of the NCAC I, NCAC II, and MAC examinations. Each examination is completed the following process:
 - 1. Test Definition – Each NCC AP examination was thoroughly and explicitly defined in terms of the purpose of the assessment, the necessary prerequisites for sitting for each exam, and the level of performance required to successfully pass.
 - 2. Content Review – Current content in use on each examination, previously validated using a similar process, was thoroughly reviewed by subject matter experts selected by NAADAC/NCC AQP for current applicability to practice in addictions counseling. Terminology was revised as needed, and new content added in order to validate new practices.
 - 3. Survey Development – The reviewed content was then placed into an electronic survey instrument with scales associated to each task that could be potentially performed by those working in addictions counseling as well as the underlying knowledge and skills for those tasks.
 - 4. Survey Distribution – NAADAC/NCC AP compiled an email list of several thousand currently credentialed addictions counselors to be invited to respond to the survey. The survey was distributed and responses gathered for a period of about 4 weeks.

- 5. Survey Data Analysis and Review – Survey responses were gathered and the data reviewed to remove all partial response strings and suspicious response patterns (e.g., no change in answer selection).
- 5. Test Blueprint Creation – With the removal of all tasks and underlying knowledge and skills that were not rated as minimally important by a representative sample of NCAC I, NCAC II, and MAC credential holders a final list of validated examination content was created.

Examination Development Cycle

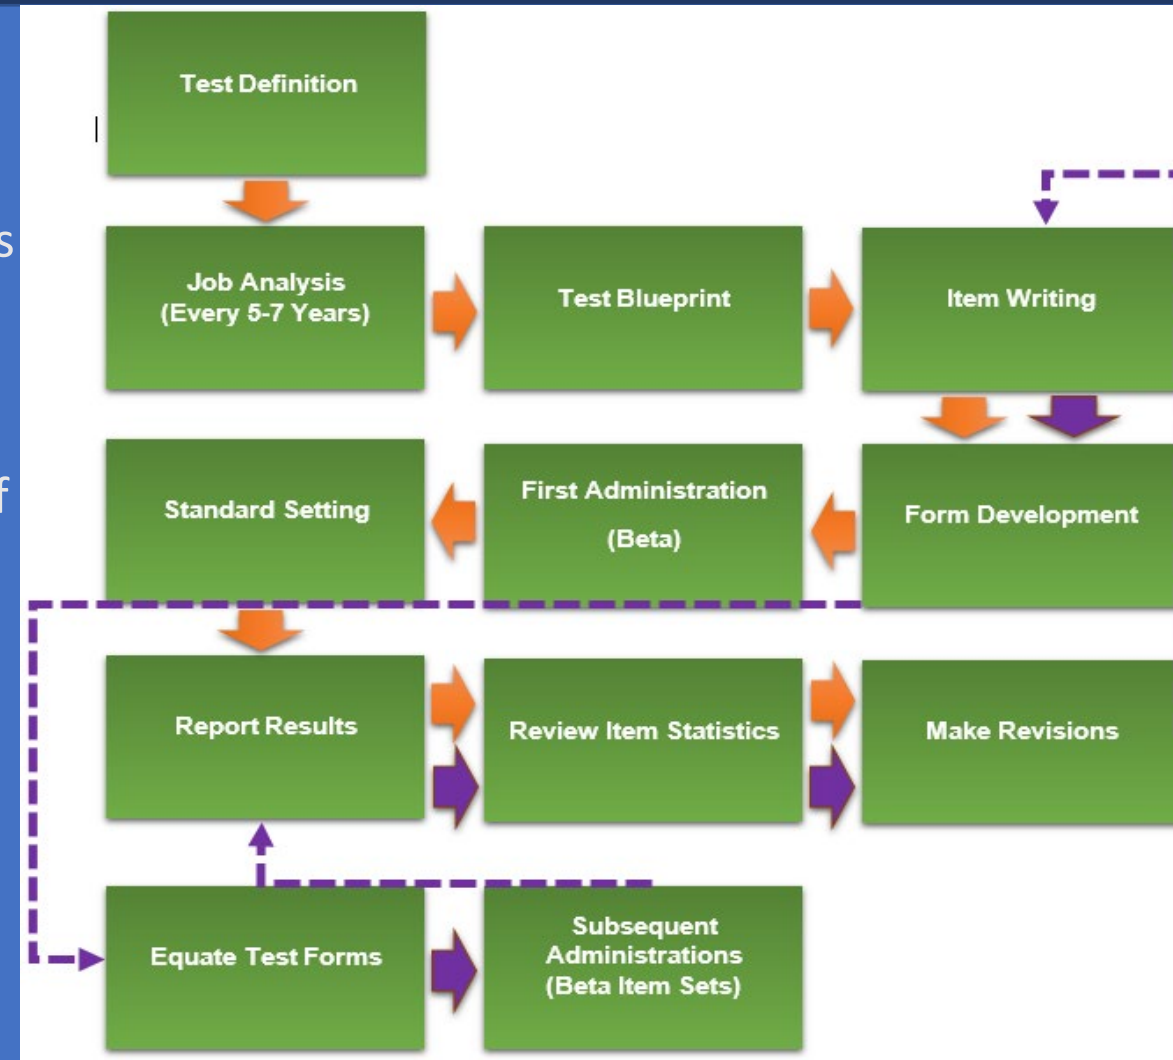

NCC AP

National Certification Commission
for Addiction Professionals

NAADAC undertook the re-validation of the NCAC I, NCAC II, and MAC examinations following the process shown to the right.

- Under the guidance of Kryterion Psychometric Services
- The test definition process for each of the examinations has been completed.
- The job analysis process is complete, and new test blueprints were created based on the quantitative results of that process (described on the next slide).
- Following the job analysis and creation of newly validated Test Blueprints for each exam the development cycle was followed (the ORANGE arrows).
 - In administrations following this initial development cycle, the PURPLE arrows were followed to allow for maintenance of the established examinations until a new job analysis is conducted in 5-7 years from 2021.

International Credentialing

- GCCC currently offers four international tests through NCC AP.
 - Global portability is becoming a reality.
 - We will develop a short test when GCCC credentialed people come into the USA for a NCC AP credential.
- ICAP I
 - ICAP II - NCACI
 - ICAP III - NCACII
 - ICAP IV - MAC
- See GCCC website for more information.
